A riotous strike occurred to-day among the reapers in the Voltri district. Troops were sent to quell the rioters, and shot two of them and wounded a number of others.

DUBLIN, July 7th.
The polling in Carlow to-day for a successor in Parliament to the late O'Gorman-Mahon proceeded quietly during the morning. Later in the day an exciting scene took place in a polling-booth at Baginbown. Canon O'Neil, a supporter of Parnell, entered the booth and voted, but the Canon was astonished to see his own name on the list of voters.

The Canon vehemently protested against the curate's action, claiming it was an attempt to intimidate the people. Those outside the booth, composed of both factions, ranged themselves on each side of the polling place and prepared for a desperate scrimmage. The police, however, gathered in force and prevented a free fight. In the disturbance a man tried to strike Parnell, but he was prevented by a number of bystanders. The supporters of the Parnellite candidate are despondent to-night as to the result of the election.

SYDNEY (N.S.W.), July 7th.
The crew of a schooner which arrived here from New Zealand said that the bark Compadre, bound from Calcutta to Chile, caught fire at sea and the captain made for Bluff Harbour, New Zealand. The bark was overtaken by a fearful hurricane, and was eventually so storm-stricken that she became waterlogged and began to sink, and was finally driven upon a ridge of rocks off the Auckland Islands. The crew managed to swim ashore, where they remained 103 days, enduring terrible privations, until rescued by a sailing vessel which conveyed them to New Zealand. Before the crew were rescued, one seaman, while hunting for food, became lost in the bush, and is supposed to have died of starvation.

REPORT OF THE TSUNG-LI YAMEN ON THE OUTRAGES IN THE YANGTZE VALLEY.

The Shanghai Mercury supplies the following translation of the report of the Tsung-li Yamén, which has appeared in the Peking Gazette.

When our Yamén received information during the first decade of the 4th moon (middle of May) of the burning and destruction of the Roman Catholic Mission buildings at Wuhu, we telegraphed at once to the Superintendent of Trade of the Southern ports, to despatch gunboats to the scene to restore order, and afford protection, and to send officials, to make enquiries on the spot. We also charged the same Superintendent of Trade to enjoin all his subordinates to exercise redoubled watchfulness, because threatening anonymous placards had been posted up in Anching and in Shanghai, and malicious rumours had been spread. The Southern Superintendent of Trade, and the Governor of Anhui then reported per telegraph that the riot had been caused by the calumnious rumour of two sisters of mercy having deceived two little children from their parents; this had aroused the suspicion of the Christian people, and incited them to a riot during which the Mission was burned and destroyed, but two of the ringleaders have been caught, and decapitated, their heads have been exhibited, and peace has been restored again.

However, soon afterward not only the Mission at Tanyang was attacked and burned, but also the Mission at Wusueh in Hupeh. We also are informed that two Foreigners had been killed at the latter place, but we are not aware of the full particulars of the case yet. Besides these uprisings some malefactors caused trouble in Nanking and Kiangsu, but the Government troops were equal to the occasion, and dispersed the mob. These several riots have caused considerable excitement in China and Foreign countries. Enquiries into the causes of these troubles lead to the disclosure that there are many discharged, unemployed soldiers, and numerous members of secret societies spread over the Yangtze provinces; these enemies to the public peace disseminate calumnious placards amongst the populace, to stir them up to revolt. The law-abiding and peaceful members of the population have nothing to do with these affairs.

The Yamén beg to point out that the fundamental principle of the Christian religion is to educate mankind to lead a virtuous life; thus it is spread over all Occidental countries, and what the treaties concluded with Foreign lands stipulate. That the followers and teachers of the Christian religion in China, Catholic or Protestant shall enjoy full security for their persons and property, and freedom for the exercise of their religion.

Furthermore, the hospitals, dispensaries and orphanages connected with the Missions are benevolent institutions, and very many Missionaries always have of late years, when ever any part of the country was suffering from inundations or droughts, collected contributions and distributed them amongst the distressed people. This readiness to help, and to benefit the people is deserving of every acknowledgment. There are amongst the Christians as everywhere else, good and bad characters intermingled, but the converts remain Chinese as before, and are subject to the laws of the country; with any of their lawsuits or legal proceedings the Missionaries have no business to interfere. Therefore, all the conditions of peaceful co-existence between converts and non-Christians are given, if it were not for unscrupulous mischief-makers inventing and spreading false rumours, to stir up the passions of the common multitude; daring criminals then incite the ignorant masses to revolt, desirous of robbing and stealing to their hearts' content during the tumult and confusion. If these unlawful proceedings are not speedily suppressed, it is seriously to be feared, that all classes of people, Native and Foreign alike, may be deterred from following their peaceful callings, which might be of the gravest consequences to all important interests of the whole Empire.

The Yamén therefore consider it a duty to petition for the promulgation of an Imperial Edict to the Provincial Governments commanding the Banne-Generals, the Viceroy, and Governors, to issue proclamations to the inhabitants, warning them, not to implicitly believe every tale and malicious rumour, calculated to oment disorder. The local authorities must take continuous care that all Foreigners, business people and Missionaries alike, are accorded full protection of person and property. In these endeavours they must never relax. If the precautions taken to guard against attacks have not been sufficiently rigorous, or if the local authorities proved lacking energy in affording protection, and discontent should be engendered, then it is the duty of the Provincial Governments to report any delinquents for punishment.

Regarding the disturbances in Wuhu, there have indeed been two ringleaders beheaded already; now it behoves the Viceroy of the Two Kiang, and of Kiangsu as well, as the Governors of Kiangsi, Anhui and Hupeh, to take steps for securing the instigators, participants and accomplices in all the riots for severe punishment, and thus institute a warning precedent for the future.

In some provinces there are still complaints and claims unsettled, dating from former occasions; the Banne-Generals, Viceroy, and Governors will have to be mindful to arrange everything with the utmost despatch. They must not listen to any empty excuses advanced by the fear of their subordinates, shrinking back from the difficulties involved, and having recourse to artful procrastination. The accumulated suits and complaints of long standing must disappear from the current business affairs.

NOTES FROM CHINESE PAPERS.

By an Imperial Decree Hsien Fu-cheng, Chinese Minister to England and France, has been appointed Director of the Sacrificial Court.

Two notorious female thieves have been captured in Peking. They are credited with extraordinary accomplishments, such as walking easily on high roofs, making impossible leaps over tall walls, dexterity in the use of arms, and other feats.

From the 13th of July to the 18th of August being considered the hottest days in summer, the Board of Ceremonies has issued a notice that all public and private entertainments with the bamboo should be reduced by 20 per cent. This regulation applies to all the yamens, civil or military.

The 31st of July was the birthday of His Imperial Chinese Majesty. The 30th and 31st of July and the 2nd of August were appointed by the Emperor as days on which to receive the congratulations of his ministers and other officials in Peking. Theatrical performances took place on these three days within the Palace, and banquets were given to the officials.

The Peking Gazette of the 23rd July records that at the request of Chang Yao, Governor of Shanung, Sheng Hsian-huai, Taotai at Chefoo, and Director of the Chinese Telegraph Administration, has been granted a button of the first class, in consideration of his having collected over Tls. 500,000 for famine relief, and seen himself that the money has been properly distributed.

The Military Governor of Ch'ahar reports that the sentence of Wuch'ung, formerly an assistant magistrate connected with the Yangtze River, has expired, but that being entirely without means, he is unable to defray the expenses required for him in connection with the postal service. The rule in such cases is that a punishment of 100 blows should be substituted for the payment of the money, and this is the course which has been pursued in the present instance.

On the 21st ult. the Wenchow bandits attempted to make another raid on some villages. A government force in ambuscade intercepted, and captured six of them. Two soldiers were killed, one by a rifle shot and the other by a sword thrust. Of the mountain bandits captured from time to time four more have been convicted by the Prefect of Wenchow. The higher authorities are deciding their sentences.

Some time ago, not long after the Wuhu riot, a Hunan man was arrested in consequence of his boasting on board the W. Cora de Vries of having had something to do with the disturbances. He has been put on trial before the Shanghai magistrate, on a charge of stating, but no tangible evidence could be adduced against him, and the charge could not be substantiated. Acting under the new regulation that all Hunan men without property, income, or occupation are to be sent home, the accused has been deported to Hunan under escort.

A dead body was found floating in the river close by Chinkiang. It was that of a boy in his teens. The head bore several sword cuts, and a heavy stone had been tied to the corpse to send it to the bottom. The magistrate held an inquest at which a native doctor reported that there were seven wounds on the head, four of which were fatal; a gag made of cloth was found in the mouth, the hands were tied behind the back with fine hempen cords; and the body was bent almost double by the weight of the stone. The verdict was "Murdered and thrown into the river by persons unknown." Runners are out to search for the murderers.

In the Pingchow District of the Taiping prefecture of Kuangsi a fire broke out during a heavy wind-storm. Over a hundred houses were burnt down and several lives lost. Cattle, stored provisions and farming implements were all lost away. The authorities at once contributed a large sum of relief money. The loss of the necessary implements for agriculture is even more severely felt than that of houses. The Governor of the province has called upon the Treasurer to furnish funds for rebuilding the place and for replacing the implements, and has memorialised the Throne for sanction. A receipt has been issued: "Let the authorities do their best in taking care of the suffering people that they may not lose their occupations."

A bumboat man at Ningpo made much money by leaping on board the steamers before they anchored and thus monopolising the trade with the passengers. The other day, when the steamer Ichang was coming in port he tried to carry out his usual tactics, but was prevented by a policeman. The boatman resisted and was taken to the station. An order was obtained from the Magistrate and he was placed in a cage in front of the station. As all the police had a grudge against him for the trouble he gave them, he was exposed to the fierce sun without protection. He was released in the afternoon but died soon afterwards, probably from sunstroke. His mother and widow went to the station, heartily cursed the inmates and took away the remains. If this statement of the case is correct, it will be well for the Ningpo authorities to make an investigation, if only for policy's sake (!)

Our Hankow correspondent writes that telegraph lines have been completed in Hupeh and connections were to be made in Hunan. As soon as the line party arrived at the borders of that province the inhabitants rose against the invasion by telegraph poles in that the most conservative province of China. Over 10,000 people gathered, and in a short time two thousand poles were consigned to the flames. Then a sort of vigilance committee was appointed to watch over all the water-courses and creeks, to prevent foreign engineers and telegraph materials being smuggled into the province. The line party, of course, could do nothing against so overwhelming a force, and made their way back to report the state of affairs. Though everything betokens no further disturbance, still it is doubtful whether for some time to come telegraph enterprises will be practicable in Hunan. Some time ago a report was circulated that disturbances were occurring in Hunan; most likely this telegraph trouble was what was alluded to.

Zor-bob, one of the suburbs of Yangchow, was recently visited by an enormous swarm of locusts. As soon as they made their appearance the City Magistrate issued a proclamation enjoining the people to use every effort to destroy the insects. He also advised that bright coloured flags should be stuck on bamboos around all the fields, and that the people should make as much noise as possible by shouting and by beating gongs, in order to drive the pests away. These measures were duly carried out and met with complete success. So the people were thankful and to express their gratitude to providence in the temple to the god of grasshoppers, and there was much festivity and rejoicing. The locusts also visited three districts in the neighbourhood of Nanking, in one place covering an area of 500 square li, and on the 20th of this moon they took wing and came over to Nanking itself, alighting in the innercity. They arrived during the night and the swarm was so dense that the light of the moon was obscured, which naturally caused great consternation amongst the people. On the next evening, however, the city was visited by a heavy thunder-storm, and a regular deluge of rain came down, which must have in some way destroyed the locusts, for in the morning not a trace of them was to be seen. The Chinese have a superstition that, when a district is visited by locusts it usually signifies that that district is near to happy and prosperous, and that its ruler is bad. But if the locusts visit a place and leave again without causing much destruction to the crops, that has a very different significance, meaning that the local officials are model mandarins, and that the district is both contented and thriving.

CHEFOO.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

I understand that a French gentleman, who has been staying in Chefoo for some time past, has successfully completed his negotiations with the authorities for the supply of Chinese labourers for New Caledonia. In all, 2,500 coolies will be required, and it is probable that they will be shipped south in batches of six hundred each. They will be employed in the nickel mines of that far-off French possession which lies seven hundred miles to the eastward of Australia, and which used to be, and is still, a penal settlement.

The gunboats Ilits and Fishband are in harbour, but I hear that the latter vessel will leave for Newchwang on the 3rd of next month. It is hot and close and we are pestered by myriads of buzzing flies that worry and torment us unceasingly, as they obtain entrance everywhere, in spite of door and window screens. No doubt the fly fulfils his destiny for good, but it is rather difficult to appreciate his valuable services this sultry weather, when your thoughts of him as an insect species would be ever so much sweeter.—N. TIENSIN.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

Knowing you had been up North lately I was rather surprised not to see anything in reference to the gratitude (?) shown by the Viceroy, Li Hung-chang, to Dr. Irwin. Li has treated the doctor in something the same way that he behaved to Admiral Laog. He is a nice old man, just as staunch and true (?) as he was with poor General Gordon, when that noble British soldier hunted around after him with a revolver. Last autumn some of our German friends got an idea into their heads that China and Tientsin, and Li Hung-chang in particular, could not get on without a full-blown doctor from the Fatherland. Herr Von Brandt and Baron Seckendorf having been communicated with on the subject brought it a capital idea and lost no time in proposing to Li Hung-chang to have a first-class medical man from Germany to act as physician to the Northern fleet, and to attend to Li's household. As Herr von Brandt had obliged the great Li last autumn the Viceroy thought he could not do better than return the compliment, so he agreed to the proposal that a doctor should be obtained from Germany at a salary of Tls. 250 per month. Dr. Irwin having heard of this, sent in his resignation last week, but it has not been accepted yet I am told. To-day I have heard a rumour that after all the German doctor may not come out as pressure has been brought to bear on Li Hung-chang, and he has been reminded what Dr. Irwin has done for his Ex. and Lady Li.

The present acting Taotai Huang of Ch'ian Fu has had two more duties added to his present functions, viz., the Chief of the Relief Department and Chief of the Mining Department. Huang is a great favourite with the Emperor and Empress and His Ex. Chang Yao, which means that he is likely to get quick and high promotion.

Up to the present no floods are reported in the Yellow River district, and it is feared that the river will not rise sufficiently to admit of the grain boats, at Ling Ching entering the Grand Canal.

If the weather continues as at present there will not be any floods here this year. The Jute has already been gathered in, the crop is a large one, and the quality good. The millet looks healthy and a rich harvest is expected. The Chinese in the interior are in good spirits, as cereals are expected to be very plentiful, and the price of rice is gradually falling in consequence. Since the opening of the river to the 30th ultimo cereals (exclusive of tribute rice) 1,557,164 piculs have been imported, against 188,779 piculs during the same period of last year. To import this quantity it would take no less than 100 steamers if each carried 15,000 piculs; and if twenty cents per picul were paid for it the freight would amount to Tls. 311,432, against last year Tls. 37,755, so the steamer companies ought to have done well. On account of the amount of cereals imported the Taku Tug and Lighter Company have been able to pay 7 per cent to shareholders for the half year, but it is the opinion of many that they ought to have been able to pay more than that.

The German Roman Catholic Bishop of Shantung has returned from Peking, and he brings with him a despatch from the Tsung-li Yamén to His Ex. Chang Yao. The Bishop also has a despatch from His Ex. Li Hung-chang. It is rumoured that when Li handed the Bishop the despatch, the Viceroy remarked that the late riots in the Yangtze were only forerunners of more serious riots that were expected to follow, and he hinted to the Bishop that he hoped he would be moderate in his demands when he got back to Shantung. The Bishop left to-day, and travels by the Grand Canal to Chi Nan Fu. It will be interesting to know how he gets on during his journey.

The Rev. A. Fowler from Peking is also here, and has been in constant communication with Mr. G. Deiring and others. Rumour has it that there is something brewing, but it is too premature to give you correct reports just now.—Shanghai Mercury.

THE Steamship "NINGPO," Captain R. Kähler, will be despatched for the above Port TO-MORROW, the 11th inst., at 4 P.M., instead of as previously notified. For Freight or Passage, apply to SIEMSEN & CO. Hongkong, 10th August, 1891. [1085]

NATIONAL BANK OF CHINA, LIMITED. THE Court of Directors desire that Shareholders be informed that the connection between the Bank and the late firm of RUSSELL & CO. has ceased; that all advances made here; with some minor exceptions, secured; and that they anticipate no ultimate loss from any business entered into, beyond the unavoidable preliminary expenses incidental to starting a new Bank. The Directors are now making arrangements, with their legal advisers in London, relative to effecting certain alterations in the Memorandum and Articles of Association, which have become necessary in consequence of the retirement of Messrs. RUSSELL & CO. from active participation in the management of the Bank. When these are completed Shareholders should be duly advised of same. The Directors regret the delay in commencing general operations, which is being caused by these alterations, and are using every endeavour to put an end to same. A. B. MCKEAN, Acting Chief Manager.
